IN THE LAW SCHOOLS

John Marshall Law School professors Mark E. Wojcik and Lurene M. Contento served as co-chairs and professor William B.T. Mock served on the program committee for the 2014 Global Legal Skills Conference in Verona, Italy, last month.

Participants from 20 countries and 180 law schools discussed issues in international legal education including legal research, cross-cultural and intercultural issues, classroom teaching and international legal exchanges.

The group also met with members of the Italian Bar Association in Vinzenca.

John Marshall faculty were joined by Leonard F. Amari, president of the school's board of trustees.

The next Global Legal Skills Conference will be held at John Marshall in May 2015.
